Dove
Where

« La città è costruita su tufo vulcanico, nel quale m'è parso di ravvisare cenere, pomice e frammenti di lava. Bellissima la vista del castello: il Monte Soratte, una massa calcarea che probabilmente fa parte della catena appenninica, si erge solitario e pittoresco. Le zone vulcaniche sono molto più basse degli Appennini, e solo i corsi d'acqua, scorrendo impetuosi, le hanno incise creando rilievi e dirupi in forme stupendamente plastiche, roccioni a precipizio e un paesaggio tutto discontinuità e fratture. »

-Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, Italianische Reise-

Quella della ceramica è una vocazione antica, dovuta anche alla facile reperibilità dell'argilla presente nel luogo, e che ha fatto di Civita Castellana, terra descritta da poeti e pittori di tutti i tempi, uno dei distretti di produzione più importanti d'Italia. Situata su uno sperone tufaceo, tra le profonde gole di due affluenti del Treja, ai piedi dei monti Cimini, lungo la via Flaminia, è una zona originata dal vulcano Vicano, le cui eruzioni hanno generato il tufo rosso, caratteristica del territorio. In seguito all'innalzamento dell'area, l'azione erosiva delle acque ha dato origine alle profonde gole che sono uno dei caratteri più suggestivi del paesaggio.

« The city is built on volcanic tuff, which seemed to me to recognize ash, pumice and lava fragments. The beautiful view of the castle: the Monte Soratte, a limestone mass that probably is part of the Apennines, it stands alone and picturesque. Volcanic areas are much lower the Apennines, and only the rivers, flowing impetuous, to have engraved creating hills and ravines marvelously plastic forms, rocks precipitously and a landscape all discontinuities and fractures. »

-Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, Italianische Reise-

The pottery is an ancient vocation, also due to the easy availability of clay present in the place, and that made Civita Castellana, land described by poets and artists of all time, one of the production districts most important in Italy. Located on a spur of tuff, between the deep gorges of two tributaries of Treja, at the foot of the Cimini mountains, along the Via Flaminia, is an area originated from the Vicano volcan, whose eruptions have created the red tuff, characteristic of the territory. Later to raising area, the erosive action of the water has given rise to the deep gorges that are one of the most evocative of the landscape character.
